As a local government leader, you have a vision for your community. Perhaps you want to prepare for growth and promote economic development. Or find solutions that maximize public funds and address critical infrastructure needs. Along the way, you might also need to improve street lighting, modernize water/wastewater utility systems, or create a technology web that spans all your departments – and that’s just the beginning.

Drive economic development

Attract new businesses and residents by reinvesting operational and energy savings into community upgrade projects. Sustainability projects can also boost your community’s brand and steer economic development with favorable rankings and media attention.

Modernize infrastructure

Infrastructure is the biggest challenge facing municipalities today, according to the 2015 Merino Survey of Mayors. Tackle infrastructure needs and deferred maintenance with a capital reinvestment project that produces much needed savings.

Improve technology

Your community is much more than just a courthouse or city hall. A complex network of buildings and systems service your citizens, all with different staff, procedures and budgets. A capital reinvestment project can help maintain critical infrastructure and speed up procurement.
